Laboratory Procedures

Carazolol is supplied as a crystalline solid. A stock solution may be made by dissolving the carazolol in the solvent of choice, which should be purged with an inert gas. Carazolol is soluble in organic solvents such as ethanol, DMSO, and dimethyl formamide (DMF). The solubility of carazolol in ethanol is approximately 5 mg/ml and approximately 15 mg/ml in DMSO and DMF.

Carazolol is sparingly soluble in aqueous buffers. For maximum solubility in aqueous buffers, carazolol should first be dissolved in DMSO and then diluted with the aqueous buffer of choice. Carazolol has a solubility of approximately 0.5 mg/ml in a 1:1 solution of DMSO:PBS (pH 7.2) using this method. We do not recommend storing the aqueous solution for more than one day.

Description

Carazolol is a β-adrenergic receptor (β-AR) ligand (K_ds = 0.2, 0.03, and 4.47 nM for the human β₁-, β₂-, and β₃-ARs, respectively).¹ It reduces epinephrine-induced increases in mean arterial blood pressure and heart rate in conscious pigs when administered at a dose of 10 μg/kg.² Carazolol has been found in wastewater effluent.³ Formulations containing carazolol have been used to reduce stress in livestock during transport.
